On the chair lift “Line E”

Bill: Hi, how's it going?

Maki: Good. The weather is nice, isn't it?

Bill: Yes. It's a beautiful day. Are you enjoying skiing?

Maki: Yes. A clear sky and beautiful mountains. Skiing in such a nice day is exciting, isn't it? By the way, my name is Maki.

Bill: I'm Bill. Nice to meet you, Maki.

Maki: Nice to meet you, Bill. Look! There's an animal in the snow. What's that? Is it a bear?

Bill: No, it's not a bear. It's a kamoshika, a Japanese antelope.

Maki: Kamoshika? Is it a deer? It looks like a dog.

Bill: No. Antelopes are a kind of cows.

Maki: I see. Oh, it's eating a tree.

Bill: Yes. It's eating tree shoots. Antelopes are plant-eating animals.

Maki: Wow, you know a lot, Bill. Do you live in Hakuba?

Bill: I'm from New Zealand. I'm a ski instructor. I work for Hakuba Snow Sports School.

Maki: So you teach skiing in Hakuba as well as in New Zealand. How many days do you ski in a year?

Bill: 150 days from June to October in New Zealand, and 100 days from December to March in Hakuba. 250 days in total.

Maki: Wow, that's great. Since when have you been to Hakuba during the Christmas season?

Bill: I started coming here three years ago. This is the fourth time I've spent the holiday season in Hakuba. I've been a fan of Hakuba. The powder snow here is excellent. In New Zealand, the slopes are very hard. They're like an ice. Also, in Hakuba, the ski pass prices are reasonable. In New Zealand, the ski lift tickets are quite expensive.

Maki: That's interesting.

Bill: By the way, there're not many people here in Hakuba⁴⁷ today. It's not so crowded. In Japan, many people come skiing during national holidays. I've heard today is the emperor's birthday and it is a national holiday.

Maki: No. Emperor Heisei stepped down on April 30. On May 1, the crown prince came to the throne and the new era called "Reiwa" began. So December 23 is no longer a national holiday. The new emperor's birthday is February 23, and February 23 is a national holiday.

Bill: I didn't know that. Now it's time to get off. Nice talking to you, Maki.

Maki: Nice talking to you, Bill. Have a nice day.
